

ARTIST GEORGE MAVRIKOS

George Mavrikos is a sculptor and performance artist based in the UK. His practice is inspired by microbiology with a keen interest in bioluminescence. George has exhibited nationally and internationally and his work can be found in private collections in Los Angeles, Tokyo and Stockholm.

10²⁹

10²⁹ is a mixed media installation by George Mavrikos. Perceived as representations of fictional microorganisms these organic forms evoke biology's extraordinary ability to adapt, mutate and thrive. The planet's climate is a complex system that is constantly changing and it is through the central role and global importance of microorganisms that the planet's future will heavily depend on.
